

1.3 Storyboard

Our storyboard mains to showcase what our solution will look like and how it can help the customer.

Facility Manager George received many data spread sheets. He knows everything about the building of the Museum of London, but when it comes to its data he definitely needs help to understand and use it.

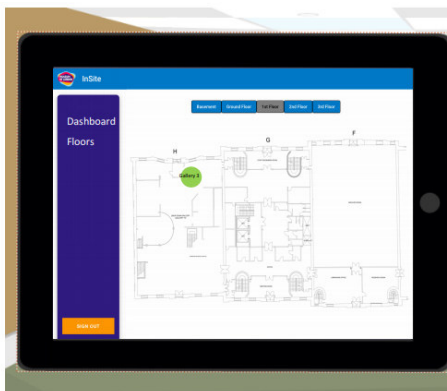

Fortunately the Insight Team of HM students has created an app which leverages the museum's data and provides insights. Thanks to the app George now has building live data at hand.

George uses the app to oversee the entire building. He noticed that the status of the first room on the first floor is "red". According to the app the air-handling equipment doesn't work properly.

The app shows that the filter needs to be replaced and gives him the possibility to react quickly, which is important in his job.

The filter replacement was captured in the app. Now the status of the room is "green" and everything works perfectly.

The app provides George confidence that he will be informed about any changes in the building so that he can react quickly on these. And no more spread sheets anymore.